

Palace defends P500-M PU fuel subsidy

By Herman Bautista

IT MIGHT be like spending on something without getting anything in return.

That's what President Aquino senior let the opposition for shelling out P500 million for a humanitarian subsidy to public-utility vehicles to address the continued volatility in fuel prices, against the popular but ultimately uneconomical notion of suspending outright the value-added tax (VAT) on petroleum products.

The government credit in the very last hour P1 billion is insufficient to cover the cost of the VAT on petroleum products as reported, Mr. Aquino said.

"The P1 billion could go to so many things. A billion is small in the [rich] the economy context," the President said. "I don't know what he had the same question of a coal-fired plant."

The studio post that accompanied Mr. Aquino to the province provided a photograph of the President's residence.

Mr. Aquino pointed to another fundamental aspect to lowering the price of fuel by removing the VAT, as proposed by national congressional members and party for members.

The conservation angle

He said it would remove the public's inclination to conserve fuel and the government would have less resources without passing any law.

Explaining the spending behavior of people, the President noted that when faced with rising prices of non-essential goods, the franchise would be in cost spending on those.

"On essential goods like fuel, you would see them spending to save and, would be very concerned that there would be no more," said Mr. Aquino, who is vice-presidential.

"When you lower the price artificial, it just has the inclination to cut down on consumption. That's the case in the oil, the tendency would be to impact down. In the end the state would be left with no benefits. It's like spending without getting anything in return," he said.

Mr. Aquino on Thursday ordered that P500 million be set aside from government savings and revenue, which fall—less the increase in tax collection because of higher fuel prices—as fund a one-month fuel subsidy for jeepney and tricycle operators. The subsidy does not extend to buses which were only recently granted a P1 per ride.

Under the program, the government will distribute "token cards" to jeepney and tricycle franchise which allows of these vehicles could present to a selected station to avail of the P1 discount.

"We really don't have control over the price of fuel in the world market. What we can do actually is this direct subsidy," Mr. Aquino said in Manila.

He said the anti-inflation program would "directly" benefit "the poor—the operators of public transport and the riding public."

Mr. Aquino said the transport operators agreed to the fuel subsidy "in favor of increasing fares."

Temporary

He noted that the administration that the Department of Transportation and Communications, Land Transportation Office and Land Transportation Franchising and Regulatory Board, have talked to agreed that the subsidy would be of benefit to them.

In Manila, Commission Secretary Ricky Corrales said, spending P500 million from the government, the subsidy program would be in place but he said P100 to 200 million.

Corrales stressed that the subsidy is only a temporary measure.

"We are studying long-term solutions which P10 and at liberty to correct right now, to deal with the volatility in fuel prices," he added.

Legislators of the House of Representatives pointed out the fuel subsidy grant of a program and they questioned was not enough to reduce the public against the continued increase in fuel prices.

Current Senate Rep. Benjamin Enrile said the program should include other vulnerable sectors in the country at large, like fishermen and farmers who also are hit by their livelihood—garages for increased losses and dead livestock.

"It is well-known that these sectors are included compared to the groups of jeepney and bus drivers in Metro Manila. This is why most of the time their interests are ignored," Enrile said in a text message.

Deputy Minority Leader Milagros Manzano said the subsidy program was a "band-aid" solution to the rising cost where the government has been virtually helpless keeping the price of oil at a justifiable level. With Christian Esguerra

Closed Villanueva house opened for wake

By William Vazquez Jr.
Special to The Daily News

IGUAQUE, Indonesia. The house of Jolly Villanueva had been closed since the man's accidental death in Xiamen, China, on drug trafficking charges in 2006.

But with the help of his relatives, it was eventually and closed on Thursday in preparation for the arrival of his remains next week. She was cremated last week. She was cremated last week.

The Villanuevas decided to hold Jolly's wake at that house in Barangay Gumbawa, and not at the ancestral residence in San Roque, Barangay Tapan in Cagayan, which is difficult to reach because of the narrow and poor road conditions.

The community has been awaiting the arrival of Jolly's parents, Geremias and Basilia Gumbawa, and their children, and his brother Jovito, who were among those who saw Jolly before he was led to the crematorium chambers.

The Order has been a law for 12 hours since Jolly's death on Thursday. The Order has been a law for 12 hours since Jolly's death on Thursday.

The community has also been awaiting the arrival of Jolly's remains, which were being transported by air from Manila to Iloilo, and then by land to Iloilo.

His brother Jolly's accident on Wednesday, Villanueva reacted in surprise, saying he was not involved in the accident.

Simple mortals

For the Villanuevas, Jolly's death was not a tragedy. They said he was a simple mortal who was killed by a simple woman with a simple dream. It was his simple dream and simple life that led to his death.

Banco Filipino, BSP execs swap charges

MANILA, Philippines—The recently obtained disclosure of the Banco Filipino (BF) and its officers to the Bangko Sentral ng Pilipinas (BSP) had caused significant impact on the Department of Banking (DOB) yesterday.

BF executives and stockholders accused the officers of the BSP and the Monetary Board (MB) of graft in the "wrongful closure" of the savings and mortgage bank.

BF argued that the government, through the Monetary Board, is denying government-owned BF officials and BF executives, who are in the BSP general counsel, and MB members Justice Antonio, Alfredo Arceño, Jr., and Justice Reyes and Justice Pardo.

BF said that the Monetary Board officials caused "undue injury" to BF, its stockholders and depositors through manifest partiality, evident bad faith and gross and intentional negligence when the MB and the BSP refused to fulfill its duty to protect the rights of category loans and thereafter ordered the closure and reversion of the bank.

Live on video: P-Noy, kids talk on water

A BOLD, 2010 video conference between President Aquino and children from "Sweetest Motherland" was broadcast on the Cavite Municipality's live video feed on World Water Day.

The "Sweetest Motherland" video highlighted the importance of the Philippines' first ever World Water Day on March 22, was co-hosted by the President at 100,000 of his in Iloilo City and children at the Iloilo University Amphitheater in Legaspi City and an AM 102.1 in Cagayan de Oro City via live video streaming using Internet's broad-band technology.

Sit, listen that we're not the only ones who experience difficulties obtaining drinking water, we're not the only ones who have to talk to you about our situation," said Lynn Isabela, daughter of Cavite, Cavite City.

Speaking from Legaspi, Isabela said water from their community well was salty and unsafe, causing illness especially among children and the elderly.

"Myra, My President," he said.

Myra May Lopez of Iloilo, Cavite City, said she and other students had to go to the bottom of the well and walk long distances daily to collect water.

At times, they use the water in canals to wash their clothes, Lopez said, adding: "We buy our drinking water from the town of Cavite, but that's not the only way to get water."

Myra del Puerto of Bukidnon, Legaspi, Cavite of Iloilo, Cavite City and Iloilo, Cavite City of Iloilo, Cavite City said "we're with the President and other officials through live video streaming."

The response, Mr. Aquino said, "Despite the many challenges, we are recommitting efforts to ensure our citizens' right to drinking water and every Filipino access to safe and clean drinking water."

So we needed to enhance the delivery of water to 26 waterworks communities in 12 provinces, we not only increased the provincial investments in water supply for the water communities, we recommitting improved water infrastructure," he said.

World Water Day is a part of the Millennium Development Goal 7, which aims to ensure access to clean water to 1.2 billion people in water for sustainable development.

It is one of the companies supporting government institutions, international groups, the scientific, civil society and the private sector in the campaign to ensure delivery of clean water to 1.2 billion people in water for sustainable development.

In a speech during the event, P-Noy and Iloilo, Cavite City said: "We understand the plight of those who live in communities with no adequate supply of clean drinking water."

"Since, through its private company P-Noy, we fully support the initiative that we are having clean drinking water, a 'Sweet Motherland' to every Filipino."

Court reverses Ombudsman suspension of 'euro general'

By Jerome Aring

THE COURT OF Appeals (CA) has affirmed a ruling, police officer allegedly involved in the "euro general" scandal of 2006 to exempt an Ombudsman-mandated suspension.

In a 31-page decision, the CA Fourth Division reversed Ombudsman Marcelino Tinio's suspension of Chief Insp. Jesus Benito III for allegedly embezzling P23.14 million in Philippine National Police (PNP) funds for a trip to Russia taken by several PNP officers and their wives.

In the decision penned by Associate Justice Josefa Soriano-Salazar, the CA said the Ombudsman committed a "grave error" in an attempt to prevent further embezzlement by suspending Benito and his colleagues.

Generalized allegations

"The public respondent (Benito), in his comment, only made general and allegations of the discretionary power of the Ombudsman to issue the preventive suspension and the supposed strong evidence of guilt against Benito, without specifically pointing out or connecting the acts on which the preventive suspension was based," the decision read.

Benito, executive director of the PNP at the time of the suspension, was one of the officers accused of involvement in the "euro general" scandal where three police corporals (Dante Escobar in the end and his wife were caught carrying 130,000 euros, or 26.8 million, each) bought the Moscow airport security arms leaving the country.

The police officers and their wives were in Russia to attend an International Criminal Justice Conference (ICJP) co-sponsored by the PNP, CA, and DOJ, Benito, along with special disbursing officer Arnold Rodriguez, Chief Insp. Danilo Padilla, Insp. Hans Padilla, director for human resources and learning development chief Director Simon Doria, and director for operations chief Director Alvin Macaraig, were placed under an absolute preventive suspension without pay.

Benito filed a motion for reconsideration of the suspension order for lack of actual and legal basis. He elevated his case to the CA after the CA denied his motion.

On Dec. 8, 2008, the appellate court issued a temporary restraining order, stopping the PNP from implementing the Ombudsman order.

The Ombudsman had charged the six officers with grave misconduct, dishonesty and conduct prejudicial to the best interest of the service.

Sandigan chief won't inhibit

By Leticia B. Salaverda

SANDIGANBAYAN Presiding Justice Edgardo Sandigan reportedly opposed moves to have him disqualified from the plaintiff case of former military commander Carlos Garcia, saying that his son, who is a government lawyer, had never appeared before his division or filed any motion before it.

Sandigan said his son had already declined to join the Office of the Special Prosecutor (OSP) only in November 2010, long after Garcia's case had been brought before the Sandigan Division which he chaired.

The Office of the Solicitor General (OSG) had earlier moved to have Sandigan disqualified from the Garcia case on the ground that his relationship with a member of the OSG which is prosecuting Garcia, might create suspicion of bias.

The OSG has sought to intervene in Garcia's P700 million plunder case because it disagreed with the plea bargain that the OSP entered into with Garcia. Under the controversial plea bargain, Garcia would be allowed to plead guilty to lesser offenses in exchange for testifying and his assets to the government.

Formerly, Associate Solicitor General Jesus Batute told the court that the OSG was not raising suspension on Sandigan's character, but was only pointing out that his hearing as an OSG was a reason for him to opt out of the case.

But Sandigan said the OSG should also state that the youngest Sandigan only joined the OSG in November last year. He said that otherwise, the OSG might be saying a "bull-rush," which could be damaging to him.

Comelec orders recount in Taguig

2nd Division moves to resolve Tinga, Cayetano dispute

By Jeremy Aring

THE COMMISSION on Elections' (Comelec) 2nd Division has ordered a recount of votes in Taguig City to resolve the protest filed by losing mayoral candidate Dante Tinga against the proclaimed winner, incumbent Mayor Loren Cayetano.

In an order dated March 30, the division ordered the removal of 400 scattered ballot boxes in Taguig. The director of the Commission's Election and Hearing Division, Joseph Tinga, Jr., said, "We had to deliver the boxes to the Commission's Office in Manila within three days from receipt of the ballot boxes from the city treasurer."

The order prompted division chief Commissioner Elia Yuay and assistant by Commissioner Armando Wilson, Jr.

to justify the report stating for another inspection of Taguig City Auditors filed by Cayetano.

The Commission said Cayetano did not raise any issue that would warrant the removal or revision of the 2nd Division's Jan. 20, 2010 order.

"The issue pertaining to the Commission's Philippine Election's security is a mere matter of what has been previously raised, passed upon, and ruled against by the Commission," the order said.

The division also directed the Taguig Auditors to verify the results of the election to ensure the scattered ballot boxes immediately upon demand.

Cayetano's supporters have an application in the temporary division to prevent the transfer of the boxes.

They also filed a motion at the Commission's Office in Manila yesterday seeking to inhibit Tinga from his alleged bias for Cayetano.

"There are accusations that he was once on the staff of Executive Justice Tinga. In fact, when he was not ordered to remove the ballot boxes, he had been going to the Commission's Office, telling the auditors to make sure the ballot boxes are there," Cayetano lawyer Tito Ocasio said.

Peace added that the Commission also filed a motion to enjoin the election protest to the Commission's 1st Division.

"Commissioners thought did not give Mayor Cayetano a chance to answer the issue of the election protest," Peace said.

A few days after the May 2010 elections, Tinga filed a protest asking for the nullification of Cayetano's proclamation and a recount of the ballots in 217 of 179 scattered precincts.

Tinga claimed the city board of canvassers and "nullifying" Provisional Election Officer Ben Hernandez and "Municipal" counterpart Ben Hernandez "outspoke" each other containing the programs that were the machines.

How to Choose the Right Financing Scheme for your Dream Home

Property developers nowadays seem to offer a good deal by providing easy-to-use financing packages. However, a closer look at their financing schemes shows a program that is not as attractive as advertised. A lot of factors must be considered before you can finally say that a certain payment scheme is the best one for you. Among these factors are the equity or downpayment (DP), interest rates on the loanable amount, inclusive projects, move-in schedule in relation to payments made, and the creditability of company providing the scheme.

The usual DP scheme offered in the market is 25% of the total contract price (TCP) spread over 12 months. Other developers spread the DP over 24 months, sometimes "stretched downpayment". The idea behind stretching the DP is to make the monthly equity payment as low as possible so that it is more affordable to consumers.

To reduce the amount of equity payments even further, property developers come up with innovative financing schemes, such as 0% or even 0% DP. At first glance, you may think that the "lower" the DP is, the better. However, you must be wary of hidden balloon payments and hidden charges that are added on the monthly amortization (or the payments to be made after the DP stage) that simply repackages the standard 25% DP scheme.

After the completion of DP, you have to check on the interest rates available for the loanable amount. Most property developers today offer either in-house or bank financing, the latter being pushed more because of the lower monthly amortization that it entails for the buyers. However, interest rates for bank loans must be checked as well. Interest rates fluctuate and usually move upward. Rather than "low interest rates", what you have to ensure, more importantly, is that the interest rate for your loan is locked-in. This safeguards you from any sudden changes in the interest rate.

You must also consider the coverage of the financing scheme offered by the developers. Some developers grant the scheme only to projects that fall within a certain price range. Thus, you may not actually enjoy your dream home if it is below or above a stipulated price bracket.

Apart from the financing scheme, however, the ease of moving in must also be considered. The rule is, the earlier the move-in schedule, the better. For units that are still for construction, most developers turn over the unit for move-in after the completion of DP. For some developers, move-in is scheduled while the buyer is still in the DP stage. Go for the operational best suits your needs.

Finally, always avail from reputable and trustworthy property developers. Availing your dream home from property developers guarantees that you are in good hands. An example of a property developer that offers an innovative financing scheme in the market today is PRO-FRIENDS. PRO-FRIENDS is a reliable and trusted property developer that has been in the industry for more than a decade now. PRO-FRIENDS currently offers its handy bank financing scheme - 0% DP term, with no balloon payments, no hidden charges, and with move-in after 12 months, for units that are still for construction. For ready for occupancy units, the 0% DP is payable in six months and the move-in is scheduled on the seventh month.

PRO-FRIENDS is committed to making the dreams of Filipinos of owning their dream homes much easier by offering the honest to goodness deal: A Php 1.08 million house and lot in Lancaster Estates in Iriga, Cebu, for example, only costs Php 825/month for 12 months during the DP stage, and Php 8,474/month for 20 years during the amortization stage.

This special financing scheme, which runs from March 1 to June 30, 2011, is available in select PRO-FRIENDS properties regardless of the price. Within this period, the interest rate for the bank loan is locked in at 10%, so you are assured of a truly worry-free purchase within the specified period.

You've waited and for years to realize your dream of having your own home. Let PRO-FRIENDS help you in realizing this dream. FURNACE LIMITED (Burmah Oil and Storage Development) Corp. (FOSD) recently signed a contract with DSI Cement Inc. for the construction of a 135-megawatt coal-fired power plant in Myanmar.

In a disclosure to the Philippine Stock Exchange, TransAsia reported that the engineering, procurement and construction (EPC) deal was aimed at financing the contract, which will allow TransAsia to proceed with its power project, which is hoped to complete by 2014.

The proposed chain coal power facility, which would be Korea's first base-load plant to support its electricity supply business, was earlier estimated to cost P8.5 billion, of which 60 percent would be financed by Korea. The company's existing equity would account for the remaining 35 percent.

These data further supported that its nitrogen and sulfur would have significantly lower carbon emissions than other coal-fired generating plants.

Crane and technology relies on combining finished bed technology that minimizes the environmental impact of coal-fired plants through lower carbon, sulfur oxides and nitrogen oxide emissions, the company said. Emissions cuts that clean coal plants are estimated to be about 10 percent lower than the existing requirements of the Department of Environment and Natural Resources.

Trans-Asia airlines said that it wanted to secure its deal from the Transworld Graphics Card Corp., which produces deal with low-value contracts.

The company said that the price paid was of the place in Hanoi, 400 Pong Pong Street, Calcutta, Hanoi would be ideal due to its ease of transportation with the Lao on ground.

GLOBAL WERT market Park Ratings reports revenue and profit margins of the local value industry to improve following the acquisition of Sun Cellular by rival network Philippines Long Distance Telephone Co. (PLDT).

Even with FDOT's assurance on the line that West Tollroad's "unlimited" call and text services would be retained and improved, Vick Barings said competitive bids on price, instead of quality of service, would dominate.

"Philippines where we currently challenged by declining average revenue per user, due largely to price-based competition" sparked by Digital Telecommunications Philippines Inc., operator of the Sun Cellular brand, and NBN Inc., an analyst at the ratings firm. "We believe that the proposed negotiable tariff would address this concern by ending price-based competition and creating a more favorable operating environment in the short

Wick said it had put PLDT's long-term, poor demonstrated global bonds on a Ratings Positive Watch, adding that the VBB rating would be upgraded once the takeover of Digital is completed. This is already two notches higher than the equivalent investment-grade debt rating.

*I am home in heaven, dear ones. Oh, so happy and so bright!
I felt a hand and touched God, woke up in His glory...
I am now at peace forever, safely home in heaven!*

We remember with deep love and affection

BSP fears wage hike effect

By Michelle T. Reyes

A WAGE hike of more than P20 a day could mean prices of goods and services to increase faster than targeted, the central bank said.

According to the Bangko Sentral ng Pilipinas, increasing the daily wage by more than P20 could cause demand for goods and services to grow significantly more than the growth in supply, thus raising the inflation rate to exceed the ceiling set for the year.

BSP Deputy Governor Tito Gomez-Pomoy said that according to the latest estimates by the central bank, inflation could be anywhere between 4 and 5 percent this year, well within the official target.

The provisionist wants to limit the increase in consumer prices to 3 percent this year and next year.

However, Gomez-Pomoy said the estimate was based on the assumption that daily wages would rise by P20.

Therein, any increase higher than P20 a day this year could cause inflation to exceed the 3 percent ceiling.

"We have to do a review of the [inflation] forecast," Gomez-Pomoy said.

Labor groups are demanding wage hikes ranging from P75 to P150 a day, citing the increase in prices of all other basic commodities and services.

Stating all prices are linked largely on the political situation in the Middle East and North Africa, subregion of producing goods.

However, economists said that wage hikes should be commensurate with an increase in production of workers. They said that if wages rise faster than production, that would mean for goods and services would grow faster than the rise in supply.

If this happens, they said, the prices of goods and services, and thus standard of living, would increase somewhat.

Meanwhile, the BSP said it would use more to deliberately manage the price to the just to temper inflationary pressures.

Gomez-Pomoy said the central bank's exchange rate policy says the state—that is, to follow the market to determine the exchange rate, and to intervene only in cases of significant pressures that would cause a sharp and sudden volatility of the peso.

"We do not deliberately attempt to manage the exchange rate just to maintain, would be managed as well," he said.

The monetary official noted that different markets are affected differently by the peso's movements, and such different impact a policy by the central bank is a strong a weak peso.

OFW savings, investments down in Q1

SAVINGS and investments of Overseas Filipinos (OFWs) dipped in the first quarter to higher prices of goods forced them to limit their spending on consumption.

According to the survey by the Bangko Sentral ng Pilipinas in the first two weeks of March, the savings for households that rely on remittances rose from 15.7 percent to 14.1 percent.

This was lower than the 14.7 percent recorded in the fourth quarter and the 15.4 percent registered in the first quarter of last year.

The latest incorporation in the percentage of respondents that used a portion of their money for savings in the percentage of respondents that did not save.

The latest survey indicated that OFW households that saved some of their money still outnumbered those who did not save, nonetheless, the number of households that did not save had dropped.

On the other hand, the investment index settled at 15.7 percent in the first quarter, lower than the 15.4 percent recorded in the fourth quarter and first quarter of last year.

"Respondents increasingly opted to invest in foreign to their respondents on all types of bank deposits and services considering their expectations of a continued rise in fuel prices," the BSP said.

Stating all prices can be traced to increase in commodities in the Middle East and North Africa.

"The public should be pacified and assured that the price movement is brought about by external factors," BSP Deputy Governor Tito Gomez-Pomoy said.

Gomez-Pomoy added that inflation from external factors, increases in the local prices of basic goods would have been lower.

The government expects inflation this year to range from 3 to 5 percent.

The BSP admitted, however, that price movement developments, inflation could go beyond 5 percent in some months, although the half-year average could still be within the target. Michelle T. Reyes

Green, disaster-resistant affordable housing

THE SYSTEM has been changed. First, the same money is used. Second, it flows into the country. Then emergency relief operations are put in place, managing victims and relief funds in makeshift temporary shelters. After the storm, an assessment of the damage is done, showing many lives lost with the destruction of countless homes of the urban poor, especially those along coastlines, creeks and coastal areas.

Then the reconstruction of communities follows with the same substantial disaster relief in the same flood-prone areas. Everyone goes about their normal lives and the new, safer houses remain and the whole cycle starts all over again.

This cycle repeats, typhoons are strongest, more frequent and more unpredictable not just in our country but all over the world. This is caused by climate change.

Let's design competition

To help change this cycle generated by indifference and the "business-as-usual attitude" behind the sad plight of the urban poor in the Philippines, an international design competition was launched in March 2010 called "Design Against the Elements."

The aim of the competition is to design houses and communities that can make the Philippines typhoon and disaster resilient for the residents to be able to survive for extended periods in post-disaster conditions.

The competition is a franchise of the late, executive director of the Malabon Foundation, in collaboration with the Mayors' Properties Inc., the United Architects of the Philippines, the Climate Change Commission and the Quezon City Government led by Mayor Herbert Bautista.

The competition received entries from 130 architectural firms from over 30 countries, including the Philippines and the United States, United Kingdom, France, New Zealand, Mexico, Malaysia and the Philippines.

Architect John Williams (United Kingdom) is the winner of the competition by providing ideas made up of housing clusters within a courtyard. It also forms the framework of a local community where people meet and help each other.

The clusters are made up of different housing units which can be stacked in many different ways. This system constitutes a different cost profile and a semi-public outdoor area with terraces and small gardens.

The second award is combined with the first for the floor, walls and roofs. All the buildings are oriented to avoid facing the primary wind direction. This minimizes wind pressure on the building. Building heights are staggered to reduce its effect. This reduces down wind pressure.

Housing units are placed on the opposite side of the sloping site and are placed on columns with a maximum height of 12 inches from the ground.

A canal system allows water from roads and courtyards and drains water to a built water collection basin.

Roads and courtyards are permeable materials not only to drain water naturally but also to prevent damage due to flooding and fast flowing streams.

Rainwater is collected from roofs leading to a cistern. When full, water will flow down a canal drainage system into a water collection basin.

Winning designs

In the professional category, the prize, House of San Miguel, Architects Peter Gollhofer (Germany's second prize), Kameel John Williams (England), Special Award—Ewing, Nazzari Pini (Italy) and Special Award—Green Design, Nazzari Technology (India).

In the student/graduate category, first prize, Dan Thaid (the Netherlands), second prize, Martin Schum (Australia), Special Award—Energy Kiam, Michelle Giff (USA) and Special Award—Ewing Design, Jordan Lee (New York City, USA).

THE CLUSTERS are made up of different housing units which can be stacked in many different ways. The spaces contribute to different cost profiles and semi-public outdoor areas with terraces and small gardens.

Some cities already have adopted a multipurpose use of public areas. These spaces may also be used as temporary shelter for disaster victims. With a high ground, these outdoor areas could be used as first shelter or sports grounds on weekends, and as a playground on weekdays.

This would be very helpful to compare with Metro Manila with over 18 million in population. The National Capital Region, the smallest typhoon hit land area with only 628 square kilometers, comprises 15 percent of the nation's total population. This confirms the magnitude of the problem and the need for more forward planning. We could very well start identifying other public areas for outdoor use including temporary shelter for disaster victims.

Manhattan Garden City named a sustainable project

Manhattan Garden City was identified as one of Mageworth Corporation's sustainable township projects during the 1st Sustainable Building Technology Conference held on November 11-12 at the 2000 Convention Center.

According to Mageworth's Sustainability consultant, Edmond Masada, the design-developer of the Manhattan Garden City is the perfect model for sustainable land use planning. Compact township provide "identification and impact" and transportation connectivity. Residents are encouraged to walk from the home to the mall or office.

Manhattan Garden City, located at the Avenue Center, offers an abundance of public transport options from buses, taxis to train lines. It is the only project in the vicinity where the MRT and MRTX lines cross, thus making any point of the metro from the north, south, east and west accessible within minutes.

Since the urban center will encourage residents to live, work, play and shop within the community, they are forecast to consume less electricity and water, buy a lesser quantity of items and discard less trash and spend for less time in automobiles. With the train lines as an option for transport, they will significantly contribute to lowering greenhouse gas emissions, according to Masada.

Manhattan Garden City is a joint venture project between the Atlantic Group and Mageworth, the country's #1 developer of residential condominiums for the mid-to-upper-income market.

"No green aspect of Manhattan Garden City also makes it a sustainable project. 85% of the total land area is dedicated to green spaces, tree gardens at the upper four floors of every tower of our new phase, Manhattan Heights, will give residents a refreshing option to unwind high up the metro's confines," Mageworth Capital Properties Inc. President Anthony (Chris) Masada says.

More than 20 different amenities—such as a big pool and table pool, playground and jogging paths—will provide tropical landscaping at the fourth floor podium level of Manhattan Garden City. The podium level also hosts a 100-meter walkway through which residents can reach the other phases as well as the train stations via Gateway Mall for MRT and Farlex's Plaza for the MRT line.

"Township living is a special place like Manhattan Garden City points the way to a sustainable future. The car-free, work, shop and play home away from your office is truly sustainable," he concluded.

To inspect the benefits of living at Manhattan Garden City, please call 89-3350 or visit the showroom at the 3rd level of Gateway Mall.

Residents will enjoy the first walk-play-shop lifestyle on offer at Manhattan Garden City.

Manhattan Garden City is one of the township projects of Mageworth Corporation that promotes sustainable living.

Manhattan Garden City is the only transit-oriented development that is linked to both MRT and MRTX trainlines.

Bieber fever burns in 3D

By Angeline Y. Teng

Student contributor
Immigration Commission Building

JUSTIN BEBER is the epitome of teenage male manliness through overconfidence and faith. This is the take away from Bieber's inspiring story in his movie, "Never Say Never", the producer of which I would say is the company of Sony's legal Bieber fans last March 23 in IM Megamall.

Who would have known that the singing star he had uploaded on YouTube would make him a pop-star? "This shows that social networking is really powerful," says one of his concert crewmembers. Bieber's songs go on Twitter or online to promote Bieber for make paintings or mini-movies.

In spite of his achievements, however, Bieber has held onto his values. At 19-year-old Bieber, his Michelle Abigan said he, "He doesn't stop about making music, or not just in self, and he remains down to earth. It's one of the few remaining things with him when he first began."

"That is Bieber's music to stay," said another Bieber fan in the preview. "It is very talented and goes in distribution," pushed another fan after a much later, too, on the 3D screen. When he finished his last 100 show, everyone in the movie house screamed—because he looked so cool!

Regular Boy

Just Bieber was a regular boy who had friends, just stayed behind, and wrote, and went to school in his hometown in Stratford, Canada.

At the start of his film, he sings "With You" with Chris Brown in a live performance. However, the video clip got lots of hits—and Bieber became a worldwide phenomenon.

Many girls who were interviewed in the movie have become such the lead Bieber fanatics they have not only the day he was born, but the time, as well. "That would be March 1, 1994 at 12:55 a.m., in case you didn't know yet!"

His baby pictures come flashing next, and they are so adorable! He plays with a small doggie down in one of his bedrooms. Did you know that he also loves playing the trumpet, keyboard, guitar and violin?

Many more you know also that he played piano, but he wanted to become a musician. He even got to go to a music camp to get himself a lot of drama. And just as added music, Bieber could actually make a music CD on his own and a half million, in fact.

While in Toronto, Canada, he joined the "Starline Kid" singing contest. His mother, Pattie Melillo said that even if he didn't win, it would have been okay since he was singing anyway. Bieber was second place; he was just 13 then.

That was when he gave up his natural life. He performed in various schools across America. He'd get on the road but with his bodyguards and stay through their while in travel from one city to the next. He still valued his studies, even as he was busy not missing his studying classes.

By then, he already had a musical coach, whom he kindly referred to as "Mama Lou." During one vocal training session, he was in the music singing with his mother, who was in the bathroom, practicing for his upcoming concert.

There's a really touching scene in the movie where a girl plays the violin in front of Justin Bieber, and Bieber goes up to her and pretends to be. When she asks if he is really Justin Bieber, and he says yes, she goes in Bieberland. "You did, how your dream, okay?" Bieber tells her.

It turns out that Anna Shuster was the very same place where Bieber played the guitar when he was just 12.

Rooming with Leighton Meester

By J. J. Garcia
Contributor

ACADEMY AWARD NOMINEE, ED director Christine E. Christensen ("Masters") crafts a finely tuned tale of madness and role reversal in "The Roommate." It is packed with ingenious twists and heart-stopping surprises as Sara (Minka Kelly), a naive college freshman, begins to suspect that her roommate, Rebecca (Meester), is not what she seems to be.

"Sara was the first person we cast for 'Masters,'" says Christensen. "And she is a natural actress. The role of Sara is a woman who can go from normal to insane in a very little time. Leighton did a lot of research for the role, going to films on which she figured out what it would be."

Rooming ideas

Meester signed on after reading an early draft of the script and speaking to Christensen at length about the movie. "I was really into it," she says. "It was really fun to watch the process of developing it. Everybody was bringing their own ideas to the table." The edge and tension of Christensen's role first drew her over. "The script had really motivated," says Meester. "Christine was what I think of as a 'strong' director. He doesn't go in and out of character. He just plants an idea in your head."

Meester, who has been a model since she was 16, says she was drawn to the role because of the "strong" director. "Christine was what I think of as a 'strong' director. He doesn't go in and out of character. He just plants an idea in your head."

Lancaster Hotel Manila's 'Easter Eggstravaganza'

HE'S (SHE'S) the wrong at heart will surely enjoy the "vegetal" special services at Laurence Bird's Monday "Tender Environments" in London.

There's something about the timing of April 14 From Heaven, which, there will be a Magic Show, Egg and Face Painting, Film Showing, the tradition of Egg Hunt and many more surprises at the hotel's El Rey Lounge. Kids coming without their Easter bunny costumes will not miss out.

Butter, yes, look a fool and get another nomination right for free with Laurence D'Olier's "Lard" a spl' pinner. With more extra marling to the (it's) ear roots or a little more.

Rooming with Leighton Meester

In the start of the series, Rebecca seems like the ideal friend for Dana. "She's actually a good influence on her," says Allmaraz. "Rebecca doesn't try to control the city, but just the club and parties, but she doesn't micromanage the relationship, which is the beginning of a lot of problems. So they get along, before it starts to heat up with reality."

Is her girlfriend?

Meester answered questions about her new project.

"This is a different role and a new challenge in your career."

Yes, but I really wanted to get into it. It was a learning experience for me. From the very first episode, just character."

I think she is desperate and not serious. Rebecca doesn't live in reality, so, a lot of what she does stems from a very emotional path. Rebecca is complex. What do you believe is her main problem? The girl doesn't know how to go from point A to B. Rebecca is trying to guard the love she has for community, but in a very unhealthy way and she has emotional control of everything that, from my point of view, is all about maintaining the friendship and love they have."

How did you prepare for the role?

REBECCA WHITE (Meester, above) from "The Runaways"

A lot of it was on the page, so the script was so good, but I also did a lot of research. I read books, listened to music, watched movies, and went to a couple of psychiatrists specializing in these disorders that had been treated for a long time to help me understand what would cause a person to behave like this.

Meester really plays her, your roommate. What is she like to work with?

Meester is so great! She was really supportive and added a lot of energy and energy to everything—which was great.

Is your character a villain?

I don't think Rebecca is bad. As a result, I believe she even has good intentions, but she ends up bad.

Was your cast experienced anything similar?

I think we all had the experience of dealing with a friend or a roommate who is a little too intense or involved. Who knows, maybe they were crazy.

What did you enjoy the most about this experience?

It was a pleasure to learn about people like my character, try to bring her to life, and live her journey. What do you like about acting? I can just keep going to be able to do what I love.

Switchfoot says 'Hello, Manila!' again

Super chats with Bill An, keyboardist/guitarist Jerome Fontanillas on the band's upcoming visit SWITCHFOOT's Switchfoot studio album since their last visit to the Philippines for "Best Rock on Stage" Awards.

By Angela K. Lopez

Los Angeles

IF YOU'RE still agonizing over missing Switchfoot's high-energy concert in September 2007, here's your chance to see them again.

The American six-rock band behind anthemic hits "Dare You to Be Stupid," "Motion to Dissolve," "This Is How I Feel," is coming back to Manila as part of its worldwide "Hello Hurricane" tour. The one-night-only concert will be at the Philippine Arena (formerly Grand Ice Arena) in Alabang, Muntinlupa.

Composed of 201 members (lead guitarist/vocalist 1, Chad Butler [drums], Jerome Fontanillas [keyboards/guitar] and three other guitarists), Switchfoot broke into the mainstream music scene in 2000 with their debut album, the 2002 movie "10,000 Hours" and the 2003 movie "10,000 Hours."

Since then, the California quintet has sold a whopping 5.4 million albums, the most success being their multi-platinum album "The Sound of Silence."

As the latest in the band's seven recent releases, "Hello Hurricane" entered the Billboard 200 chart at the top of the "Best Rock on Stage" Awards' category.

"Switchfoot" marks the band's triumphant return to its home state, with some of the country's most diverse and actively engaged fans. The band's music is a mix of rock, pop, and country, with a focus on social and environmental issues.

Super recently had a chance to chat with Switchfoot's keyboardist/guitarist Jerome Fontanillas about the band's upcoming visit to Manila.

changed significantly since you've been back to your native roots?

No, it's still pretty much the same. It's not a surprise, but I play a song to see how it's received and all that, so we can get together and prove the song is good.

Do you know you don't call yourself a Christian rock band, but your faith has always been an integral part of your songs, right?

Yes, we've always felt that our faith is a big part of who we are. When you're living life and your faith is a big part of it, it's not a surprise to the world. It's not a surprise to the world. It's not a surprise to the world.

On you have any plans for a headline concert or charity donation for those in need?

We have plans, we were just talking about it. We're always looking for ways to help our friends in need, and we're looking for an avenue to help out the best we can. (TV) According to Switchfoot's management, there's still no official word on whether the band will be made into the songwriting organization (see below) for those in need.

Legomania

The little studious bricks are back. And if you think kids are the only ones going crazy over Legos, you're wrong

By Pam Foster

HIS NAME is Sean, he looks about eight years old, but he's a top store and I'm following him.

He walked past Baby Station, I walked past Baby Station. He walked towards the Legos display. I walked towards the Legos display. He stopped to check some items.

When I asked him to show me some items, I stopped to check some items.

There was a good reason I was walking that little boy. Sean was walking, he reached up the last two hours of Legos right under my nose. They were new—I had never seen them before. I was walking and he there but he didn't look back to see if I was following him. He dropped them into his shopping cart.

Time out for good news on TV—for a change

Another my|phone first, mag-negosyo through your phone!

Now on to third year, my|phone is already reshaping the mobile phone industry of the Philippines with its innovative phones, innovations, quality and affordability. From pioneering dual SIM technology in phones with camera, video & mp3 functions, to TV, Gaming, touch screen and even first global all-weather products, an affordable for Filipinos. The company has a lot of firsts up its sleeves. It created the first patented paper phone in the world that contains audio content such as speeches and proper alerts as part of the patented software.

Last year, my|phone launched the Music Master Phone (MMP) which contains songs from the country's top singers like Sarah G, Blessing, Mark Bautista and more. The music album phone not only provided a technological for music artists but it also supports the government's drive against music piracy through its special technology which contains the music file in the phone in a way that it cannot be copied to a computer.

Now my|phone launches a new first, the my|phone mag-negosyo, gives my|phone users and enter building entrepreneurs convenient access to LoadCentral services through a unique patented menu interface. This is in partnership with LoadCentral, the most successful distribution solution provider for all prepaid services in the country today.

The new my|phone, along with its game|phone (G|phone), Ringtone Master (RM), Image|phone International (I|phone), Game Only (G|phone), Digital Master (G|phone), Cabinet (G|phone), Touchscreen (G|phone) and Paper|phone (P|phone) makes it easier for my|phone to reach and be the young market especially in the gaming community.

Easy done it with my|phone's patented menu

With my|phone's patented menu, everything you need is in an easy-to-navigate menu. Ringtone, all services are one or two-press away.

Loading is very easy. It only takes a couple of presses on your my|phone and you can top the load you need from LoadCentral. No need to stop playing or get out and top load, just access your my|phone menu and load up. This can even send gaming credits to your friends in text, call, and when you connect with LoadCentral through my|phone, you can get the gaming load at up to 15% discount, as if you sell, you can get higher profit margins. And if you register, you can get further gaming e-PINs.

Loading and selling load is very easy. Just get a my|phone, select can go to LoadCentral, P1,199, plus initial load when you can register with LoadCentral and you can already start sharing in selling phone and online gaming load. And because of the my|phone's patented menu, it's very easy. Under when you are using other phones, you have to follow a 4-7 steps to go load. With my|phone, you can have to memorize the text code or scroll and the numbers to send it to because all these information are already on the menu. Access the menu and it's easy (G|phone), you're on. This makes my|phone easier to use than normal paper-based services. This can share load with friends or family. And if you can have a business at the top of your finger.

And when you connect with LoadCentral using my|phone's my|phone, the load will be sent to you at up to 15% discount. Another plus is the auto-connect feature which the menu will automatically detect when partners' text, load and phone numbers to make everything very easy.

My|phone's my|phone, this is one of my|phone's innovations to make the life of Filipino better.
